A sufficient number of schools in the southwestern division have promised furniture, to be made by the boys in the manual training departments, for the Red Cross convalescent houses near camps. By June 1 it is expected that this work will be completed. Tables, benches, dressing tables, rugs and tapestries are given the preference over other furniture.

The Red Cross house for convalescents at the base hospital at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas, is open. This building is said by authorities to be the most substantial building in camp and the best constructed. It is in the midst of six two-story hospital wards, deep in a pine woods, back of the main buildings, the grounds around it forming a park. The hall itself, is in the form of a gigantic cross. The roof is painted red and the sides white, so the airplane observers can easily distinguish it. Each wing of the cross is used for a different purpose. There are writing rooms and game rooms but the big feature is the auditorium in which artists can perform for the convalescent patients. This is one of the seven Red Cross houses now under construction in the southwestern division.

MRS. DOOLEY'S ADVICE TO WORKING GIRLS

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I wish all girls who work and suffer from functional disorders would profit by my advice and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I was married, when I came home from work at night, I would be just worn out with pains which dragged me down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel like a new woman. I can work from morning until night and it does not bother me, and I wish all girls who suffer as I did would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. H. Dooley, 1135 26th Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Working girls everywhere should profit by Mrs. Dooley's experience, and instead of dragging along from day to day with a burden, give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It has overcome just such conditions for thousands of others, and why not for you? For special advice, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

DRESS by Anne Rittenhouse

NEW YORK—The world did not disturb itself much this season in the production of new fabrics. That is well. Women do not care for any striking, shrieking originality for the duration of the war. They are content to use what materials time and experience have justified.

They want novel details in clothes for human nature will always remain the same during peace and during war, and we require a bit of stimulus in the way of change.

Using Reliable Fabrics.
Therefore, there has been no quarrel with the weavers. The dressmakers have delighted women in introducing a new silhouette, a varied coat line, an entirely changed neck-line and a mass of minor details that stimulate the imagination; but the foundation stones of clothes, the fabrics, remain the same as they were last year.

Serge, gabardine, jersey, silk and worsted, chiffon taffeta, Georgette crepe and Chinese and Japanese silk are sold by the thousands of yards without a protest from any buyer that they are commonplace.

Among the weaves that are used for the majority of gowns, it is probable that Georgette, in its various colorings, will be accepted during the warm weather in broad fields of activity. The dressmakers, you know, are trying to make this a season of transparent apparel as the hot weather comes on that is they are doing a rushing business in organzies, figured voiles, fine muslins, batiste and even cotton net with ribbon ruffles.

Georgette is more durable than these fabrics because it does not need such constant cleaning, and therefore, it leaps to the front in a season that calls for a revival of the old-fashioned fabrics that were once considered indelicate to the summer season.

France sent over organzies gowns as a leading fashion sufficiently early in the season to have them exploited in vast numbers at Palm Beach, and one well-known dressmaker affirms that she had an order for seventy-eight of these frocks before Easter.

These facts would seem to point out the way to a successful season for organzies, but in connection with this fabric, the French dressmakers also put emphasis on Georgette, because they realized its economical value, and it is well that we should do the same.

Combined With Other Fabrics.
There are entire gowns of Georgette crepe in the new fashions, and they will be worn throughout the hottest weather for all hours of the day and evening. Dark blue serves for the street, and flesh pink, mauve and the new green shades serve for the afternoon and evening.

The sketch shows a serviceable evening gown made of Georgette crepe and crepe de chine in a combination which is thought well of by good dressmakers. This kind of gown serves the woman who wants to slip on something that will do honor to several occasions.

SUFFERED AGONIES WITH HER HEAD

Was Almost Desperate Says Arkansas Lady, But Relief Finally Obtained Through Use of Cardui.

Et. Smith, Ark.—Mrs. J. B. Clift, of this place, writes: "I am the wife of a groceryman in Et. Smith, also Van Buren, Ark. For the benefit of my friends and all other women, I am writing this. I have been troubled all my life with . . . All my life, from the time I was 13 years old, I suffered agony with pain in my head . . . Our family physician doctored me but did me no good. A friend told me about Cardui, and how much good it had done for other women. I was almost desperate, so decided to try it. I took two bottles . . . and felt so much better in every way that I took another bottle, then another, which made my fourth bottle. That has been five years ago, and I have been . . . ever since. I think Cardui a wonderful medicine, and I advise all women, who suffer from womanly troubles, to take it."

Cardui is recommended for weak, ailing women, who need a strengthening, tonic medicine to help build them up, and assist in restoring normal, natural conditions. If you suffer, as most women do, at times, from womanly troubles, try Cardui, the woman's tonic. Forty years of successful use are back of it. At all druggists. (Adv.)

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. (Adv.)

If war talk were money Liberty bonds would be selling forty points above par.
